

GRADUATE CERTIFICATE IN SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

“Northeastern’s D’Amore-McKim School of Business is a great school. The evening track was ideal for me as a working professional and it was very easy to get to campus. Best of all, after completing the program, I was promoted to a new position within my company.”

WILLIAM ODOM
GCSCM, CLASS OF 2016

MEET THE RISING DEMAND FOR SUPPLY CHAIN PROFESSIONALS.

Supply chain remains a key source of competitive advantage in driving business growth objectives. In just the U.S. alone, Fortune reported in 2014 that 1.4 million supply chain specialists need to be hired by 2018 making the industry a strong source of job growth.

With our Graduate Certificate in Supply Chain Management, you will quickly gain skills to become an innovative leader in this increasingly complex and growing industry.

In our accelerated 8-month program, you will benefit from the strengths that have positioned D’Amore-McKim as a true leader in this field. We were the first school in the nation to offer a credit-bearing certificate program in supply chain management—and the only one in greater Boston. Gartner ranks our supply chain program #17 for graduate programs, #15 in the U.S. for undergraduate programs, and we are considered a destination school for PhDs in the field.

For over 19 years, our supply chain expertise has been recognized worldwide.

This solid reputation has been driven by an outstanding classroom experience, where you will be guided and inspired by our exceptional faculty. As active supply chain professionals in a variety of industries, our world-class faculty will empower you to confidently use critical thinking skills as they present their real-world and day-to-day challenges to you for your assessment. What’s more, you will learn directly from highly successful industry CEOs and practitioners who will share their relevant, practical insights from the front lines of supply chain management, equipping you with the knowledge to tackle the real business issues and challenges in your workplace.

For supply chain professionals, engineering graduates, or motivated professionals seeking a career change, the future of supply chain management has tremendous potential. And, if you are interested in our Part-Time MBA or other masters programs, upon successful completion of your certificate, you can apply and transfer in those credits.

Take your next step now, and move ahead with the school that has recognized expertise across the world in this growing field.

LET US HELP YOU GET STARTED.
