After studying abroad at Murdoch for a semester, I wish I could finish my university degree there. I only realised after studying at Murdoch what a successful university should be like; I enjoyed every minute of my learning, classes, assignments and time on campus, it was a joy!

I was surprised by how much I loved Murdoch. I am not usually excited to go to class, but in Australia, I couldn't wait to do my class work and contribute to class discussions and do the assignments. Study Abroad in Perth went way beyond my expectations; it was such a memorable few months and some of the best times in my life so far.

One of my favourite things to do, and I would give anything to do it again, was sit out on Murdoch's lush Bush Court in the sun chairs and work away on my assignments in the sun under the trees. So simple but so enjoyable. I would meet my mates between classes and sit out there with a coffee and chat, and it was so relaxed and pleasant.
