A historic campus, in the heart of Paris

Located on Rue Claude Bernard, in the heart of the 5th arrondissement of Paris, Le Delta Campus is built on the former premises of the Institut Agronomique, which later became the renowned engineering school AgroParisTech. A venue rich in history, where we challenge educational models to ensure our students become drivers of change and transformation within businesses.

A one-of-a-kind location, designed by and for students

Thanks to Design Thinking methodologies, Le Delta Campus has been designed to meet all the expectations of students, with the sole aim of creating spaces that reflect who they are. We encourage our students to push the boundaries of traditional management and embrace complementary skills in design, tech, AI, architecture, and luxury. Le Delta Campus is much more than just a place of learning: it is a modern campus, designed in every detail to foster learning, exchange, and personal development. It perfectly meets the requirements of high-quality higher education, while offering an ideal environment to look ahead to the future.

A campus embodying the values of Paris School of Business, cross-disciplinary and multicultural.

Le Delta Campus hosts 5 of the most prestigious schools in their fields: Paris School of Business (business and management), Penninghen (architecture), Atelier de Sèvres (animation cinema), IESA Arts & Culture (arts and art market), and Cours Florent (dramatic arts). This cross-disciplinary approach enables students to meet, share projects, and access inter-school programs.

As a pioneer of cross-disciplinarity, Paris School of Business becomes much more than a school with the opening of this new campus: it is a think tank, a place where academic and cultural boundaries are transcended. Our students become not only experts in their fields but also creators of innovative solutions, capable of understanding the challenges of the world around them and tackling them.
